

Levels of Consciousness

Level	Description
	Awake and responding correctly.
	State of being unaware and unable to respond to stimuli.
	Lowered level of consciousness; very tired or drowsy.
	Unresponsive state; can only be awoken for a brief time.
	Fainting; brief loss of consciousness.
	Deep form of unconsciousness; no response from stimuli, eye movement, or speech.
	Form of a coma where a person has a cycle of sleeping and then waking up; however, when they are awake, they are still unconscious.
	Acute condition of delusion, confusion, memory loss, and hallucinations.

Levels of Consciousness

Level	Description
Conscious	Awake and responding correctly.
Unconscious	State of being unaware and unable to respond to stimuli.
Lethargy	Lowered level of consciousness; very tired or drowsy.
Stupor	Unresponsive state; can only be awoken for a brief time.
Syncope	Fainting; brief loss of consciousness.
Coma	Deep form of unconsciousness; no response from stimuli, eye movement, or speech.
Persistent Vegetative State	Form of a coma where a person has a cycle of sleeping and then waking up; however, when they are awake, they are still unconscious.
Delirium	Acute condition of delusion, confusion, memory loss, and hallucinations.